

One chair, 10 designers: Croft House is celebrating 10 years of their iconic Sierra chair by collaborating with 10 interior designers to create unique variations of the classic design. Contributing to Croft House's first product collaboration are Adair Curtis of JSN Studio, Brooke Wagner of Brooke Wagner Design, Elena Dendiberia and Homan Rajai of Studio Ahead, Emilie Munroe of Studio Munroe, Faith Blakeney of Studio Faith Blakeney, Jeff Andrews of Jeff Andrews Design, Linda Hayslett of LH.Designs, Max Humphrey, Noz Nozawa of Noz Designs, and Tali Roth of Tali Roth Interior Design. Each of the designers put their own spin on the powder coat of the metal frame and the cushion fabric. Shown is Hayslett's interpretation, with an aged red powder coat and Moe Tamarind fabric from S. Harris. The collection debuts this summer. croffhouse.com

The Float sofa by Sarah Ellison for Design Within Reach deserved a proper L.A. debut. The Stahl House, Pierre Koenig's midcentury Case Study stunner, didn't disappoint: With Ellison's seductively luxe take on 1970s silhouettes and indulgent lounging, Float became the ultimate conversation starter in an iconic setting. "We are seeing more people embracing the style of furniture that enables an ease of storytelling," the designer says of the buzzy piece. dwr.com
